

Advantages / Disadvantages

Nowadays travel agencies flood the market with their services. The most popular are package holidays, which are willingly chosen by families, newlywed couples and pensioners. In spite of having multitude advantages package holidays have some bad sides.

On the one hand, package tours have obvious benefits. First of all, you will know with a reasonable degree of certainty what the total cost of the holiday will be. Your flights, accommodation, meals and entertainments are included in the price. Another thing is that many packages offer facilities such as swimming pools, restaurants, bars, children clubs and activities such as cycling or tennis, so you will not get bored during your trip. What is more there are now a wide number of tour operators offering details to almost every corner of the world. You can spend your holidays on Sri Lanka, Caribbean, Maldives or Egypt.

At the same time, package holidays have a number of disadvantages. To start with, you basically spend most of your time in the resort complex, so some of the more appealing tourist locations might go unvisited. It also means that you are stuck with whatever the hotel offers which might be very good or might be not so good. However, the worst thing that might happen when you choose package holidays is that you can be cheated by travel agency. After you get to the destination country it may appear that your accommodation have not been paid or the hotel standard is not on the level that you expected.

On balance, it seems that package holidays have both advantages and disadvantages. They offer comfortable and carefree way of spending a leave, but they also have some drawbacks that people often tend to forget about.

How to Organise Package Tours

Package tours are excursions or holidays which “package” a variety of services together to make a single “combined” trip. Commonly they combine such things as transport, accommodation and meals. They may also include the provision of a tour guide and/or leader. Tours can be long or short in duration and distance. They may be a one-day or overnight package, or they could be a period of a month or more.

Packaged tours typically include:

- All transfers between airports/harbours/stations and hotels
- Twin share tourist and first-class accommodation with private facilities, as specified
- Cruises
- Rental cars
- Entrance fees to attractions
- Insurance
- Tickets for entry to events or attractions
- Insurance

Finding the good holiday can be as difficult as finding a needle in a haystack with so many holiday locations, packages and special offers crowding your computer conceal begging for your attention when searching the Internet for your planned vacation.

Finding the dwelling to holiday is only half of the mission, after you have decided where you want to utilize your quality time relaxing you need to judge about favorable accommodation, transport to, from and during your holiday, meals, entertainment and no doubt tourist attractions.

Deciding all of this is so time intriguing it is no wonder that all inclusive and half board holiday packages are gaining popularity amongst tourists.

Holiday packages tend to allow a greater level of flexibility, with the dates and activities its very distinguished a more comfortable intention of planning your next holiday.

By allowing the recede agent to recall care of everything you will guarantee yourself a stress free and scrumptious vacation.

Most people will engage holiday packages for this reason alone, recede agents tend to assume reputable businesses which are already tested by there clients.

It is also worth noting that tour operators are able to negotiate sizeable discounts from the attractions, accommodation and affiliated industries.

Because they have expansive buying power which means the discounts can be passed along to the customer and with so many of these companies operating competition amongst them for our custom ensures that the prices remain relatively affordable.

Adding to this it might be difficult for you to pick up event tickets or speciality tourist activities a tour operator has more connections and deeper pockets this means they are more likely to be able to net these for you which I am certain you would agree is a more than useful service.

withhold in mind that it's not all roses with proceed agencies, there are some pit falls to holiday packages.

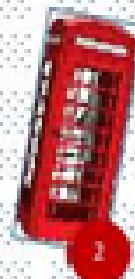

Inclusive holidays can purchase the fun out of researching and view your holiday and such there might be things you would have liked to have done but have had itineraries organised for you which are not entirely excellent.

Personalised experiences are not catered for, holiday packages are for the masses and therefore no special treatment should be expected.

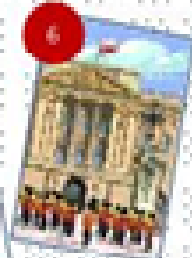

Some of the activities included may not be safe and therefore you may be wasting money on activities you will not be partaking in which will evidently cost you more money.

At the demolish of the day, you might not be able to fetch complete suitability in a holiday package and there not the most flexible but they can win the elements of stress allowing you to truly relax and indulge in your earned vacation.
